STG International, Inc. Receives Special Award at Washington SmartCEO/Grant Thornton Future 50 Event Last Month

Alexandria, VA – Feb. 2nd, 2007 – STG International, a premier provider of human capital management, professional and medical services to the federal government and U.S. military, received a special recognition award during the Washington SmartCEO/Grant Thornton 2006 Future 50 awards banquet last month.

Playing upon the events theme of ‘Riding the Hockey Stick’ of business growth, STG received a special ‘Hat Trick’ award for being the organization with the greatest employee growth in 2006. STG recently reached its 1,000 employee mark and is estimated to grow to over 1,200 in 2007. The growth is a result of new contract wins in such areas as medical staffing services for the Navy and highlights STG’s ability to provide hard-to-fill positions all across the country.

A ‘Hat Trick’ is when a player scores three or more goals in a hockey game. As appreciation, fans throw their hats onto the ice. The ‘Hat Trick’ awardees, during this black-tie event, were selected from among the 50 metropolitan area companies who were presented with a hockey stick in recognition of their organizational accomplishments in 2006. The other ‘Hat Trick’ award for fastest revenue growth went to SI International and The Resilience Award was presented to Proteus Technologies.

Michelle S. Lee,
President and CEO,
STG International, Inc.

“This was such a surprise,” said Michelle Lee, President and CEO of STG International. “We knew about the Future 50 award, but we weren’t expecting to be part of the ‘Hat Trick’ presentations. It’s great to be recognized for all of our hard work. STG’s impressive growth record has resulted in expanded services in a variety of specialties, in 33 states, as well as Washington, DC and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.”
