

STGi Supports Haitian Reconstruction Efforts through Conference Sponsorship

ALEXANDRIA, VA, June 2, 2011 – In the aftermath of the earthquake in 2010, the international community, including the Haitian Diaspora, expressed its willingness to assist in rebuilding Haiti. Donating billions of dollars annually, Haitians living abroad have long been the life line of Haiti, and they have continued their support in the aftermath of the earthquake. In order to help support the efforts of the Haitian Diaspora, STG International, Inc (STGi) elected to sponsor the Haiti Reconstruction Trade & Capacity Building Expo. The objectives of this expo were to:

- Create a national and international networking platform, particularly with the Diaspora, for dissemination of Haiti-US and international employment, business development, and investor opportunities to improve infrastructure and capacity building in Haiti.
- Promote transparency around the reconstruction activities pertaining to situation awareness, procurement activities, and strategic planning across the international community of donors.
- Inform the international community, business stakeholders, and job-seekers on how to participate in various reconstruction opportunities in Haiti; and to share US and global best practices on sector-related infrastructure projects.

The Expo is a mechanism to support the international community in its effort to rebuild Haiti's infrastructure. It is also a forum to galvanize the Haitian Diaspora, business developers, employers and job seekers to learn about opportunities in Reconstruction of Haiti. The Expo will also serve as a platform for engaging participants, particularly Haitians living abroad, via reconstruction workshops to share best practices and in-country and community perspectives on various sector-related developments, public-private partnerships, and agency-specific government procedures for infrastructure development initiatives in Haiti.
