

STGi Launches Education and Technical Assistance Services Website

ALEXANDRIA, VA, May 7, 2010 – STG International, Inc. (STGi) one of the leading training and technical assistance (TTA) providers announces the release of a new website – Education and Technical Assistance Services, the division aimed at bringing together early childhood resources and news designed for connecting early childhood professionals.

The site will feature a real-time Head Start news engine that captures the most significant Head Start, Early Head Start and early childhood news stories. The site offers a collection of instructive radio broadcasts addressing a variety of Head Start, Early Head Start and early childhood topics, such as emergency preparedness, health and safety, and child nutrition. Also featured on the site are links to a list of comprehensive web destinations with promising practices, as well as career opportunities at STGi. To visit the website and explore the resources it offers, visit www.STGInternational.com/headstart/. For questions about the website, contact Gustavo Luque, 703-578-6030x255 or gluque@stginternational.com

“We are excited to launch the education and technical assistance website aimed at supporting the services that we provide to the Office of Head Start” said STGi CEO Michelle Lee. “The site will be a useful resource for early childhood education professionals as they grow and develop in their careers.”

STG International, Inc. (STGi) is a woman-owned minority business, founded in 1997 to provide human capital management, medical, and professional services to Federal and private sector clients. Dedicated to the Human Mission, STGi proudly supports the nation’s most fundamental imperatives which includes Head Start training and technical assistance, medical care for Soldiers, and government-wide recruitment, among others. Learn more by visiting www.STGInternational.com.