

Tracy Denny joins STGi as Vice President of Business Development

Alexandria, VA, February 3, 2012 – STG International, Inc. (STGi), a provider of strategic healthcare and human capital solutions to the federal government, has announced that Mr. Tracy Denny has joined the STGi Executive Team as the new Vice President of Business Development. Mr. Denny will work from the company's corporate headquarters in Alexandria, VA, and will report directly to the President and CEO, Ms. Michelle S. Lee.

"We are so thrilled to have Tracy join STGi as Vice President of Business Development" says Ms. Lee. "Tracy is a great complement to our organization and his presence will bring new strategies and leadership to our business development team. His expertise and understanding of strategic growth and operations will provide a broad perspective for approaching and focusing on new growth and markets."

Mr. Denny brings sixteen years of results-oriented business development leadership experience in the public sector market with a focus on management consulting, information technology, and professional services. Mr. Denny's expertise includes business development, IT and professional services consulting and operations, and sales. Tracy's most recent experience was as the Vice President of Business Development at Serco, Inc., located in Reston, VA where he performed various roles to drive large, complex solution sales, execute new market growth strategies, and manage business development professionals to drive contract signings across federal, state, and local government markets.

Mr. Denny will lead STGi's corporate business development, capture management, proposal operations, and marketing functions. He is also directly responsible for the development and implementation of STGi's strategic goals and initiatives and its corporate branding and awareness campaigns.
