STG INTERNATIONAL, INC. APPOINTS THREE NEW SENIOR STAFFERS

Newly Created Positions Respond to STG's Strong Growth

Alexandria, VA – June 20, 2005 – STG International, Inc. (STG), a prominent human resources, medical and wellness outsourcing specialist to the federal government, announced the creation of three new senior management positions. Mike Blank, a current employee with STG, has assumed new responsibilities as the vice president for the newly created Consulting Services Division. In addition, STG is pleased to announce the arrival of Allan C. (Al) Hardy, vice president of business development and Ellen Duncan, director of human resources. Each of these new roles has been created in response to the robust growth that STG has experienced over the past year.

Mike Blank brings more than 30 years of private and public sector leadership experience to his expanded role as vice president of the Consulting Services Division. In his new role he is tasked with growing STG's management and IT consulting practices as well as expanding the firm's Federal HR Solutions group. An experienced federal sector management consultant, Mr. Blank is well versed in the President's Management Agenda Strategic Management of Human Capital initiatives and has a strong background in human resources and pay issues. He has earned a MA in Human Resource Development, a BS in Human Resources Management, and is a 20 year Navy veteran with a solid background in federal human resources and pay issues. STG already has a diverse portfolio of workplace transforming services in critical areas such as business process re-engineering, change management and recruiting and staffing strategy development. Under Mr. Blank's leadership, STG will continue to provide outstanding organizational and workforce development services.

Prior to joining STG as vice president of business development, Al Hardy directed business development, bid and proposal, sales and marketing, as well as teaming activities for a private firm. Mr. Hardy's role at STG will focus on identifying and qualifying strategic partnerships with teaming partners, developing new 8(a) business opportunities, and expanding business markets for STG. Additionally, Mr. Hardy is a retired U.S. Army Colonel with more than 26 years of military experience and demonstrated success as a senior manager, advisor, trainer, and policy expert.

STG's new director of human resources, Ellen Duncan, has more than 20 years experience in general business and human resources management. Ms. Duncan is responsible for directing and facilitating all aspects of STG's functional and strategic human resources related activities. A subject matter expert in the areas of HR policy, compliance and administration, employee and organizational relations, and 'employer of choice' health and welfare programs, she has worked within a variety of organizational structures and industries for both the public and private sector. Ms. Duncan is SPHR certified by the Society for Human Resource Management and holds a BA from the University of Maryland.

"I am so pleased with the addition of these roles at STG – and more pleased with the talented individuals who will be filling these roles," said Michelle Lee, STG International, Inc. president and CEO. "As STG continues to grow, we still maintain the goal of hiring only the best in the business. I am confident that Mike, Al and Ellen will lead STG to continued success."
